Prisoners by Portu-

NEWSPAPERS PRINT LIST

Containing the Names of Many Confined in Foreign Prisons

Manifesto Greeted With General Rejoicing—Franco Former Dictator Left the Country.

Lisbon, Feb. 5.—Lists of all former dictator Franco's political captives,
still confined in Portuguese or foreign
prisons are printed by the new government's authority in the Lisbon
newspapers today. The publication caused the greatest rejoicing throughout the whole country, hundreds of persons having been arrested within
the past few months without the knowledge of their relatives, who have had no means of learning how they disappeared or even whether they are alive or dead. Visits to the prisons were permitted today, for the first time in months and many touching reunions took place.

Arrangements have already been made for the release of these political offenders. Large numbers of political exiles to Africa and other foreign penal colonies, will also be brought back by the first steamship and set free.

It was resolved at a meeting of the new cabinet today to continue governmental reforms instituted by the fallen premier, but to conduct them
by constitutional means. Former premier Franco is said to have left the country.

ANARCHISTS BLAMED FOR ASSASSINATION.

Lisbon, Feb. 5.—An anarchist organization, with branches in every important city in Europe, is now believed by secret service agents here,
to have been responsible for the assassination of King Carlos and Crown Prince Luis. Secret police have seen warnings to other continental capitals that a campaign of regicide is planned.

INJURED ON STATE WORK.

Mt. Vernon, Feb. 5.—James Abrahams has commenced suit for damages in the sum of $2,000 in the Common Pleas court against R. H.
Evans & Co., of Zanesville, the contractor building the State Tuberculosis Sanitarium east of this city. He says while he was employed and was carrying brick there, he fell from a scaffold and received injuries that cripple him for life. He says the accident was due to negligence on the part of the contractors.

SURVIVORS OF WRECKED SHIP IN HOSPITALS

Boston, Feb. 5.—Carefully wrapped in blankets to protect them from zero weather, the suffering survivors
of the steamer St. Cathbert, were transferred from the White Star liner Cymric, this morning to Boston hospitals. Ambulances were waiting and hospital physicians immediately took charge of the injured crew. The worst sufferers are Captain John Lewis and Fireman Armand J. Lohr.
Scarcely one of the men rescued on
the burning steamer is in condition
to recount the terrible experiences of hours, during which they battled with fire and storm.

DEATH SENTENCE IS REPORTED FOR GENERAL STOESSELL

London, Feb. 5.—A news agency report here says that General Stoessel
has been sentenced to death for surrendering Port Arthur to the Japanese. His trial has been pending for weeks and the prosecutor in summing
up the case, asked a capital sentence
against him yesterday. The report is not confirmed.

KAISER PRAISES MR. TOWER — CALLS MRS TOWER VON MOLTKE OF SOCIETY.

MR. TOWER, CHARLEMAGNE TOWER

Berlin, Feb. 5.—The Kaiser regrets exceedingly that Mr. Tower, the American ambassador to Germany, and Mrs. Tower are to leave here in the spring, and he has freely expressed his feelings on the subject to members of his court, but especially to Prince von Buelow, the imperial chanceller. His Majesty fully appreciates Mr. Tower's political services and as for Mrs. Tower, he referred to her recently as the "Von Moltke of Berlin society," adding that she had done more to make social life in the German capital brilliant and interesting than any one who has been here during his reign.

DICKERSON GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER SAYS HOLMES COUNTY JURY

Millersburg, Feb. 5.—The jury in the Ben Dickerson case, after being
out nearly five hours, returned a verdict Tuesday night at 8:30 of manslaughter. A motion was immediately made by the defense for a new trial and the same will be heard next week.

Thus Dickerson escapes the electric chair after having served months in the annex of the penitentiary at Columbus. Dickerson was found guilty
by a jury at Coshocton over a year
ago and was sentenced to death.

His attorneys, after a hard fight,
won their case in the supreme court
and a new trial was ordered. His attorneys claimed that he could not get a fair and impartial trial at Coshocton and a change of venue was granted to Holmes county, where the trial has been in progress almost three weeks.

After Dickerson was found guilty
the date of his execution was set and he was taken to Columbus. After waiting months he was removed from the annex back to Coshocton, where he has been in jail until taken to Millersburg for his second trial.

INDIGNATION AT COSHOCTON

WHEN IT WAS KNOWN THAT THE JURY FOUND VERDICT FOR MANSLAUGHTER.

And Wild Threats Were Heard—The
Time Can Be Reduced by Good Behavior.

(Special.)

Coshocton, Feb. 5.—When the jurors filed into the court room last night at about 8:30 o'clock at Millersburg, only about 50 spectators
were present, and even Judge Wickham had to be called from his hotel.
It was not supposed the jury would
come to a decision before midnight,
and the regular attendants at the trial had forsaken their seats for a rest in the outer air.

Their report of manslaughter came
as a great surprise to everyone, and
when the foreman handed the sealed
envelope to the clerk and the report
was read not a sound was heard in the court room. Dickerson smiled
when he learned of his fate, for the sentence, for manslaughter is from one to twenty years, and should he receive the full limit of the law, by
good behavior he could cut his time
down to about twelve years and six months, and as he has served two years, this will cut down his time
still more.

A great deal of indignation was
felt in both Millersburg and Coshocton
when the word was passed that the jury only found Dickerson guilty of manslaughter, and some wild
threats were heard from the people who denounced the jury's return. The prisoner was immediately returned to his cell in the Holmes county jail.
He was not sentenced and will not
be until the motion for the new trial
that will be made, is disposed of. The motion may be heard by Judge Wickham in either Coshocton or Millersburg, or in any other town where he may be holding court. If the motion

is overruled, and it probably will be,
Dickerson will be sentenced and taken from Millersburg to the penitentiary.

FLEET SAILS ON THURSDAY FOR PACIFIC

Punta Arenas, Feb. 5.—The coaling
of the American battleship squadron
will be finished tonight, and early tomorrow the fleet will steam from Punta Arenas harbor for the Pacific.

COUNTESS YARMOUTH'S MARRIAGE ANNULLED EARL GETS FORTUNE

London, Feb. 5.—The marriage between the Earl of Yarmouth and his wife, formerly Miss Alice Thaw of Pittsburg, was annulled this afternoon. The hearing lasted but thirty minutes. Three witnesses were heard for the countess. The earl made no defense and was not present. It has leaked out that one third of the countess' fortune has been settled on her husband. Yarmouth maintained
up to the very last that he would fight the case. His witnesses, including physicians, servants and numerous personal friends, were ready to take the stand. Neither the earl nor they actually entered the court room, however.

Peabody said: "I wish to God he
had been convicted and sent to prison, rather than to be sent to such a
living hell as he is now confined in."

EXPLOSION AT POWDER MILL.

plosion this morning at the Dupont Powder Works, destroyed three buildings. No loss of life.

Shanghai, Feb. 5.—An imperial edict
was published in the Pekin Gazette,
granting Sir Robert Hart, inspector general of the imperial customs, one

year's sick leave, with the grade of foreign board president. He is to be succeeded by Sir Robert Braden, the vice inspector general, who is promoted to the rank of lieutenant governor
of a province.
Sir Robert Braden is Sir Robert Hart's brother-in-law. Lady Braden is an American who was Miss Banks of San Francisco.

APPEAL

Will be Taken for Thaw to Lunacy
Commission

FOR IMMEDIATE REMOVAL

From Matteawan Asylum
in Spite of Littleton's Opposition

Peabody Says He is Getting Worse
in the "Living Hell" Where He Now is.

New York, Feb. 5.—At a consultation of the attorneys for Harry Thaw
today, it was decided to apply at once to the state lunacy commission
to have Thaw transferred from the Matteawan asylum for the criminally
insane, where he is now committed to some private asylum. Attorneys Littleton, Peabody and O'Reilly attended the conference. The decision was reached after Thaw's case in its present condition, had been thoroughly
canvassed. Littleton opposed the proposition for a long time, holding that it would be better for him to stay
where he is at the present. Immediately
after the conference Attorney Littleton left for Washington. He will have no voice in the proceedings
to secure the transfer for Thaw. It was the report made by Lawyer Peabody as to Thaw's condition and surroundings as he found them on his
visit to the asylum prison yesterday,
that forced a decision to apply immediately for Thaw's transfer. Peabody declared that Thaw is breaking down under the strain of being backed up with scores of insane persons. In his present condition the attorneys frankly admit that they are afraid to have Thaw taken before a
justice on a writ of habeas corpus,
lest the doctors would have to testify
against him, and he might be sent back to the asylum. For this reason
they will appeal to the lunacy commission to remove him to some institution where, while under state supervision, he will be able to secure the treatment he needs and not be made worse.

Peabody said: "I wish to God he
had been convicted and sent to pris-
on, rather than to be sent to such a
living hell as he is now confined in."

CANNON SAYS A COMMISSION IS NOT NEEDED

TO AID CONGRESS IN THE ADOP-TION OF NECESSARY TARIFF
REVISION.

And Is Opposed to Beveridge's Bill
to Create One, Forshadowing
Its Defeat.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Speaker Cannon put his foot down hard Tuesday
afternoon upon the proposition, embodied in a bill recently introduced
by Senator Beveridge, of Indiana,
to create a commission of so-called experts to guide Congress in a revision of the tariff. A delegation representing the National Association of Manufacturers called at the House of Representatives to urge the appointment of such a body, and had an audience with Speaker Cannon and Chairman Payne of the committee on ways and means, which drafts all revenue legislation. The speaker made them a kindly little speech, in which he indicated very clearly that he was opposed to the passage of such a measure as the Beveridge bill, and
this, of course, foreshadowed its defeat in the House, should it ever get through the Senate. He also made it clear that he did not take any stock
in tariff commissions and believed
that Congress, with the aid of tariff
experts in the Treasury, was fully competent to revise the tariff whenever it became necessary.

There are comparisons in all things.
Some sermons sound good because the choir is so bad.

FAIRBANKS RECEIVES INDORSEMENT OF INDIANA FOR THE PRESIDENCY

Charles W. Fairbanks.

Indianapolis, Feb. 5.—The Fairbanks column was opened up Tuesday
with 26 instructed Hoosier delegates
as the first entry. The tone of indorsement given the vice president in every district of the state indicated that the leaders are very hopeful that the good start made at home will be followed soon by an accumulation of votes in other localities. There was no string to the indorsement. It was given as freely as when the delegation was handed to the late Benjamin Harrison in 1888. The leaders who are lukewarm in their support of the vice president buried the hatchet or kept quiet while a delegation was

named and instructed to stand by him
from start to finish.

The net result of the 13 conventions was all that the Fairbanks lieutenants could reasonably ask for. They are pleased that he has jumped
into the race at the head of the procession in that, for the time being at least, he has more votes actually
pledged than any of his opponents.
He was hailed as the bosom friend of McKinley, as well as the staunch supporter of President Roosevelt. His lieutenants were playing the game at both ends and the middle. They were bidding for the old McKinley guard,
as well as the element that shouts for President Roosevelt.

SENATOR ATWELL'S RESOLUTION FOR INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM ADOPTED BY SENATE YESTERDAY

The initiative and referendum resolution introduced and championed
by Senator W. L. Atwell of Licking county, as adopted with the committee changes and amendments, provides that the proposition to amend
the constitution for direct legislation
be submitted to the people next fall.
By the amendment the people are to reserve the right to enact or reject at
the polls any law or part of a law
passed by the General Assembly, or any proposed law introduced which fails to pass or having passed has been vetoed by the governor or has not been passed without amendment.
Laws are not to become operative

until 90 days after adjournment, except emergency measures.

By petition containing 10 per cent
of the electors, filed 45 days before the fall election the people may require a popular vote on any measure
which failed to pass, or was vetoed,
or was not passed without amendment.

The total number of votes cast
thereon shall aggregate not less than 60 per cent of the total number of votes cast at the election.

The measures are to be put on separate ballots, apart from party
tickets, and all petitions are to contain a full text of the act or bill to be voted on.

SCORED FOREIGN MAR- RIAGES.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—Marriages
of American heiresses and foreign nobles were scored on the floor of the House by Representative McGavin of Illinois, speaking on the bill to tax
dowries. His remarks called forth
laughter and applause.

The house, he said, was in committee of the whole on the status of the Union, but he wanted to know what the state of the Union was and what it was coming to. In view of the international union between American
heiresses and nobility abroad, he wondered what the early pioneers would think and say if from their graves
they could look back and see so many of the women of this country "sacrificing their souls upon the altar of
embroidery."

He expressly stated that he had no
intention to go further than American citizenry had he prohibited all titled men, but he referred only to those who have a monopoly on their eyes and
an idiotic look upon their faces—those who have neither the discretion to do
good nor the ability to do harm.

CHARLES MCGAVIN.

being their souls upon the altar of
embroidery."

OVER MILLION

WILL BE THE AGGREGATE OF LOSSES BY SEVERAL BIG FIRES.

Outside Aid Saves Town—Big Plant
Damaged—Church Burns—Two Fatally Burned.

Trenton, Feb. 5.—Fire this morning attacked the plant of John A.
Roebbing's Sons' company here and
before it was controlled inflicted a
loss reaching half a million dollars,
burning over three acres of buildings. No one was severely injured.
The Roebbing plant is an immense
one valued at $10,000,000.

Berlin, N. H., Feb. 5.—Aid from Portland and Lewiston, Me., saved Berlin from destruction by flames today. The loss has reached $500,000.

Church of Christ, Scientist, burned
today. The loss is $100,000 with insurance of $60,000.

TWO FATALLY BURNED.

New Philadelphia, O., Feb. 5.—
When her clothing ignited from a grate fire, Edna Struckmacker was burned to death. Her aged mother was perhaps fatally burned in trying to extinguish the flames.

ROOSEVELT SUSPENDS THE PUBLIC PRINTER

Washington, Feb. 5.—President
Roosevelt today suspended Charles A.
Stillings from duty as public printer,

S. Rossiter, chief clerk of the census bureau is appointed temporarily to Stillings's place.

ATWELL'S RESOLUTION

On Initiative and Referendum Passes Senate
After Hard Fight

And It is Confidently Predicted
That It Will Have Easy Sled-
ding in Lower House.

Columbus, Feb. 5.—By a vote of 25
to 11, the state senate yesterday
adopted the Atwell initiative and referendum resolution. Advocates of the resolution claim to have enough
pledged votes in the house of representatives to adopt it there. The resolution provides for a constitutional amendment upon which the people are
to vote.

Senator Samuel H. West of Logan
county led the fight against the measure. In his battle he was ably assisted by that old-line Democrat, Elza
Carter, attorney from Wyandot
county.

On the final vote, Senator Carter stood alone among the Democrats in opposing the resolution, and with 10
Republicans, made up the 11 votes against it. Those who voted for the resolution were:

Beatty, Berry, Boehmer, Denman,
Drake, Espy, Gayman, Hafner, Har-
per, Howe, Huffman Hunt, Mahaffey, Schmidt, Vanover, Ward and Williams, Democrats; Lamb, Independent;
Atwell, Brandt, Duvall, Lawler,
Meek, Pollock, Rathburn, Republicans.
Those against it were:

Carter, Democrat; Arbenz, Crist,
Hypes, Kinsman, Lauman, Mather,
Patterson, Rose, Russell and West,
Republicans. Senator Sites of Fairfield county declined to vote.

In his closing argument Senator
West intimated that the real purpose
back of the resolution was the hastening of state prohibition. He declared that one of the first measures proposed to be initiated would be a state law for prohibition.

MAY TAKE VOTE ON ROSE BILL

This Afternoon or Thursday and the Temperance People Claim a Sweeping Victory.

Columbus, Feb. 5.—The Rose county local option bill is the biggest thing in sight in the Legislature now.
It may come to a vote Wednesday
afternoon, but it is quite possible
that the final roll call will not be reached until Thursday afternoon.
The temperance people are confident
of a sweeping majority, while the opposition interests vary in their claims
but will undoubtedly try to gain
something by amendments.

JAIL SHELTERS ICE TRUST MEN

Toledo, Feb. 5.—Roland Beard and Compton Lemman of the Hygeia Ice
company, and Joseph Miller, manager
of the Toledo Ice and Coal company,
were Tuesday sentenced to six months
in the county jail and to pay costs
of prosecution, by Judge Kinkade, for conspiracy in restraint of trade.
No further efforts will be made in behalf of the defendants, and they at once began their term of sentence. All the men are of prominent Toledo
families.

MAKES ARREST AT FUNERAL.

Millwood, Feb. 5.—A sensation was created at the funeral of Mrs. George Miller yesterday afternoon, when Sheriff Clements appeared immediately after the services had been concluded and placed George Miller under arrest. Miller is charged with the unlawful sale of liquor. He was taken to Mt. Vernon and locked up in the county jail.

The race, which will be for a prize, will take place Thursday night at 9:30 o'clock.

Suit on Judgment.

Police Court.—Chin Sun.
For the past few weeks, in fact ever since he took the oath of office, Mayor Atherton has had a big double-barreled cinch. His sessions of police court have been tight and easily disposed of and very seldom do more than four prisoners ever face "hizzoner." The police department, since the recent shaking up, is a model of harmony and all the men are working well under Chief Zergibel. While several men aspired to the position of chief, yet they realize that "Bob" is entitled to the office in point of service, and was not raised over their heads.

Aged Wanderers Locked Up.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Taylor, an aged couple, both over 70 years old, were locked up in the city prison yesterday for safe keeping. The old couple claimed they came from Kentucky and were homeless. This morning Chief Zergibel released them and tried to get transportation for them from the township trustees, so they could go to Mt. Vernon. From there they will be sent to Mansfield, their destination. They were very reticent regarding themselves and refused to furnish much information about themselves.

A Wheelbarrow Race.

Many different races have been "pulled off" in Newark, but one that will be seen at the Palace rink tomorrow night will probably be the funniest yet seen. The wheelbarrow race on roller skates is bound to be a hill, and the complications that will take place will be decidedly humorous. Manager Snyder has decided on this race as the latest way to entertain the ones that will attend the skate.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED

If the drove of hogs is given proper feed and pure water and have what charcoal, salt and wood ashes they need, they are not likely to need high priced tonics or stock foods to keep them in good condition.

What the country needs today is not so much a money flexible currency as a little more rigidity in business morals. There are several ill arising from a lack in the latter respect which the most elastic currency under the sun could not cure.

One authority states that hogs root not merely for the sake of rooting, but for the purpose of seeking a supply of alkali which their systems demand. It is the most generally accepted view that they root for the worms, grubs and roots which they find.

Secretary Wilson, having in view the total value of the crops of the country for the past year, places the average value of each day's sunshine at $50,000,000. There is little question that certain extremely favorable days were worth to the growing crops many times this amount.

The grinding of corn increases its feeding value 6 per cent. This means that if it is worth 25 cents per bushel its value is increased a cent and a half; if worth 50 cents, 3 cents. Whether one is justified in grinding would depend upon the price of corn and the cost per bushel of doing it.

There is likelihood that parents are to some extent at fault if their children would rather spend their evenings anywhere else than at home. The home should be the best and most interesting place in all the world, and parents should realize more than they do the importance of making it so.

A western man, distrustful of the bank as a place of safe deposit during the recent financial flurry, deposited $4,000 in a stove in a vacant house. He knows better now, as the house burned up with the money a night or two later. The federal government does not back stoves, tin cans or holes in the wall.

Farm animals seem to know instinctively which foods have the most nutritive value and will do the most for them when digested and assimilated. This is why they prefer bright hay to musty and why they will eat alfalfa and clover hay in preference to timothy or wild hay. The same thing is shown in the greediness which is exhibited by poultry for clover hulls and leaves when there is a scarcity of other green food.

A nearby feeder in speaking of his hog raising operations in the hearing of the writer the other day attributed the absence of hog cholera in his flock during the past sixteen years largely to the fact that in the fall and early winter, when a great many farmers stuff their shoats with soft and immature corn, he gave his but very limited quantities, it being his theory that growing pigs need and should have but small quantities of corn. When used for the ration and being prepared for market larger quantities of mature corn may be fed without danger.

In the city of Chicago pneumonia claims four and a half times more victims than any other disease, a condition that is aggravated because so many people do not have or cannot get the fresh air which they need. Pneumonia, bronchitis and consumption are recognized as the three chief impure air diseases, and best informed physicians not only recommend an abundance of fresh air as a prevention, but also as a cure. Seldom is the man, woman or child who is much out of doors troubled with these ailments. In spite of the fact that fresh air is cheap, many seem to go on the assumption that it is the cause of coughs and colds or is so costly as only to be within the reach of millionaires and aristocrats.

It has been estimated as a result of careful surveys which have been made by members of the government forest service that there are in the Appalachian mountain system south of the state of Pennsylvania 5,000,000 acres of land covered for the most part with hardwood timber, of which amount 85 per cent is in a cut over condition. It is claimed that with proper care, including prudent cutting and a prevention of forest fires, this area, little of which from its very nature can ever be devoted to any other use than the raising of timber, can be brought up to a point where it will produce annually forty cubic feet of timber per acre. This total, together with 25 per cent of the remaining supply, which is estimated can be secured from other states, will just about meet the annual consumption of 3,000,000,000 board feet. The attention of the forest service as well as others interested in the forestry question is just now being directed with much force to this problem and its solution.

The sons of the Princes and Princesses of Wales have been taught to knit. While from the American standpoint this may seem a trifle old fogeyish, there is little question that a whole lot of American boys would be better off if more of their time were spent in this occupation and less with yellow backed novels and cigarettes.

Efforts at economy are only justified when the saving effected more than offsets the time spent in attempt. Along this line we seriously question whether the good housewife is justified in saving the cotton cord which comes into the house on different packages and winding it into a neat ball or in cooking some things 'neat does to keep them from spoiling.

During the winter months, when the ordinary sources of green food are unavailable, the flock of chickens will greatly relish clover hulls or leaves either dry or soaked for a short time in warm water. A frequent feed of this, coupled with a head of cabbage hung up within reach, with now and then a feed of chopped onions, will not only be greatly relished, but will tend to materially increase the production of eggs.

The other day we noted the case of a man who agreed to pay his wife 25 cents each day that she would walk a mile. She had been in no way good health and was somewhat in doubt whether she would be equal to the task. However, she persevered, with the result that she seldom thereafter knew a sick day, while her husband gave her less for keeping her bargain than he had previously paid out for doctor's bills.

Good money can be made during the spare hours of the next two or three months cleaning up the seed that is to be used next spring. As a rule seed that is of weak vitality is also light in weight, so that putting it through a fanning mill with a good blast of air on will separate the plump from the shrunken kernels. At the same time weed seed and other of any kind will be separated from the grain that is intended for seed.

An eastern student of plant life has lately made the statement that thistles and rape seem to be antagonistic to each other and that the former will die out where the latter plant gains a foothold in the soil. There is a suggestion here for the farmer whose fields are overrun with thistles. The same authority asserts that a like antagonism exists between the rose and the mignonette, the former not thriving near beds of the latter.

Many do not seem to realize that soft or hard coal ashes have absolutely no fertilizing value and should not be scattered on the garden with a view to being plowed under. However, the same is true of wood ashes, which contain considerable percentages of fertilizers. These latter should be thrown on the compost heap or scattered at once on the garden, where the goodness they contain will lead into the ground, where it will do some good.

During the present year durum wheat has been raised in the United States of an estimated value of $30,000,000. What this means is the more fully understood in view of the fact that a large per cent of it was raised on semiarid land that only in rare years can be counted upon to produce a crop of the ordinary varieties of wheat. This variety of wheat—durum or macaroni—was introduced into this country eight or nine years ago by the department of agriculture at an initial cost of some $10,000, the wisdom of the expenditure of which time has proved most fully.

The spineless plant creation, one of the marvelous plant creations of Luther Burbank, gives promise of being an invaluable boon to the arid sections of several of the southwestern states, where today, except under irrigation, little but sagebrush and cactus will grow. This new creation is free from the stiff, sharp spines which in the native species prevent its being devoured by grazing animals and render it not only useless, but a positive nuisance and source of danger to both man and beast. The spineless variety seems to be entirely hardy and at the same time possesses the succulent and nutritive qualities of its bristly ancestor. While sufficient time has not yet elapsed to determine to what extent it will displace the native variety, there is little question that this will be the case where it is given a little assistance.

The season of the farmers' institute is now on, and while the success of such meetings depends to quite an extent upon the character of outside talent secured, it depends to an even larger extent upon such handling of the various topics to be considered as will permit a free and informal discussion of the various points of interest by the laymen the farmers who come from the surrounding territory to attend the institute sessions. While one of these same fellows might be much embarrassed and fuddled if put on an informal discussion in which he forecasts himself let drop more practical and helpful suggestions than the high priced imported speaker. It should be the aim of those having discussions in charge to bring out just as many as possible of these helpful laymen. All too many professional institute speakers are glib of tongue and fluent in speech and feel that they have earned their money if they have killed the time allotted to them. In many cases they trespass on the time of those who have something to say that is of much more practical value.

The most striking commentary on "Prosperity" that has been the boast of interested organs for several years, is the demonstrated fact that with man thousands of wage earners this "Prosperity" has at no time been more than a few weeks removed from destitution. The demands on charity today are almost as pressing as in the dark days of the worst panics the country has ever witnessed.

It is passing strange that some of our Republican contemporaries don't point out the fact that these are Republican times.

United States Senator Guggenheimer is having good success in controlling the patronage of Colorado. Trust magnates seem to still be welcomed at the White House.

Congressman Tawney, chairman of the committee on appropriations, warns his colleagues they must face a deficit of $118,000,000 in the revenues of the government. Where! oh where! is Republican prosperity gone?

The National Bank of North America has gone into the hands of a receiver, which would indicate that they are still treading on dangerous financial ground in New York. The boasted Republican prosperity seems to be skittish these days.

It is said the Aldrich currency bill will pass the Senate with but little amendment, and in the House, if necessary, debate will be cut off by a special rule.

A leading Republican journal describes the speech of Gov. Hughes as the message of a statesman and the message of President Roosevelt as an Arkansas stump speech. But for such a stump speech it is not necessary to go so far as Arkansas.

Should present conditions of industrial stagnation continue during the pendency of the great political struggle this year no trouble need be anticipated about financing the "movement of the crops." There will be idle money and idle cars galore for the purpose.

MANY INTERESTS

ARE REPRESENTED BY THE MEN WHO WILL BID FOR THE AUDITORIUM.

Several Large Syndicates are Anxious to Obtain Control of Popular Play House.

The leasing of the Auditorium theater in this city by the trustees which will occur Friday evening, is exciting considerable attention in theatrical circles, and there is going to be a great deal of rivalry for the popular play house.

Tuesday A. L. Wiswell, of the Gaiety theater of Columbus, was in the city looking up the conditions of the lease. He represents one of the largest theatrical firms of the East, and has instructions to try and obtain the Newark play house. In speaking to an Advocate representative Mr. Wiswell stated that should he be fortunate in securing the lease for his people this city would get all the big standard attractions.

Wm. Saunders, also of Columbus, was in the city Tuesday and he too is desirous of obtaining the Newark theater. Mr. Saunders represents the Valentine theatrical circuit and should he be successful this city would then become a part of that circuit which at present includes Toledo, Columbus, Springfield, Dayton and Indianapolis. Attractions would be booked through the above circuit.

In addition to the above gentlemen Messrs. Ernest Johnson, the present efficient and hustling manager of the Auditorium, W. D. Harris, who is to have charge of Buckeye Lake Park this season, and Fred Mason of Zanesville, representing Cohen & Harris, will also have bids on the lease. It may also be probable that G. Sachs, ex-manager of the Grand at Springfield, and at present managing the Orpheum in this city, during the absence of Manager Baum, will endeavor to secure the lease.

WORST

WEATHER OF THE SEASON WAS EXPERIENCED IN NEWARK WEDNESDAY.

Snow, Sleet and Rain Were in Disagreeable Evidence—School Pupils Sent Home.

At noon the pupils of the High school were dismissed as were a part of the rooms at the Central building, owing to the fact that many of the pupils reported wet feet and the teachers were afraid that many of them might catch cold if they were not allowed to change their footwear.

Right here it might be proper to suggest that the present time might be an excellent opportunity for the sidewalk committee of the City Council to get busy and make a tour of inspection. The paper suggests, however that they provide themselves with rubber boots before they start.

The groundhog is certainly living up to his reputation as a weather prophet, for no more disagreeable weather have we had this winter than we have had since he came out of his hole last Sunday and saw his shadow and slid back into his hole to remain there six weeks. Tuesday night it took a notion to snow, and at five o'clock Wednesday morning there was about three inches of the beautiful on the ground. Shortly before five o'clock, however, it began raining and by nine o'clock the walks and streets were a glare of ice and slush, making traffic very dangerous to pedestrians. Only those having urgent business ventured out of doors, and these walked in the middle of the road or carefully picked their steps on the walks.

During the early hours of the day traffic on the interurban roads was seriously interfered with on account of the wires being loaded down with ice, and the cars from Columbus and Zanesville came in from 20 to 30 minutes late. By 11 o'clock the wires were clear and the cars were all running on time. Traffic on the steam roads was not interfered with at all, as all trains were run on time.

PERRYTON.

Activities in the oil and gas fields near Fallsburg, have ceased until the weather is more favorable. Four strings of tools are expected to be put in operation as soon as mercury rises.

Mr. Owen Beatty of Lover's Lane, was called to the bedside of his father-in-law, Mr. William Bradveld, Monday afternoon.

Edice Baugman went to Columbus early Monday morning and took charge of the remains of Mrs. Mary McArthur.

Mr. Charles Anderson of Nickel Valley is very ill, and there are only slight hopes for his recovery at this writing.

Vand Cullison of Newark is spending a few days with his mother, Mrs. Rebecca Cullison.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bliss entertained the following guests at dinner last Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Holman and son Russell, Rev. Mr. Nuzum and Miss Mary Warfel.

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, large congregations attended the revival services at the Church of Christ, under direction of Rev. Mr. Nuzum. The candidates will be taken to the baptistry at the Central Church of Christ, Newark, Wednesday, where the rite of baptism will be performed.

THE WRONG WAY

Many Physicians Try to Cure Dyspepsia by Having Their Patients Starve Out the Disease.

This Method May Ruin the Stomach.

To become a physician one must study medical literature for a long time and attend several years at a medical college, dissect at least one human body, pass many quizzes and examinations, and at last receive his diploma, which entitles him to the M. D. degree.

Yet all this does not necessarily make a doctor.

We have known many graduates, with their sheepskins, who could not apply the knowledge they had acquired to relieving and curing a patient of dyspepsia.

They were floored by their first attempt to cure such a patient.

They were not to blame for this, for all the knowledge they acquired from medical works was wholly experimental.

They were told to try the following:
Aromatic Ammonia.
Bicarbonate of Soda.
Bicarbonate of Potash.
Blue Mass.
Camphor Water.
Cathartic.
Charcoal.
Creosote.
Hot Water.
Lime Water.
Margarine.
Mineral Waters.
Nitric Acid.
Nitro-Muriatic Acid.
Rhubarb.
Oil of Amber.
Oil of Capnut.
Rhubarb.
Senna.
Spirits of Lavender.
Starvation.
Styevia.
Sulphur.
Sulphate of Lime.
Tincture of Cardamon.
Tartarum.
Tincture of Ginger.
Tincture of Iron.
Tonics.
Vegetable Bitters.

In the list hot water is the only remedy that will not do more harm than good, and its use is still an unsolved problem.

If the professor who coaches the graduate would hand him a package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and tell him that it was a specific for dyspepsia, indigestion, all stomach ailments, and should be his mainstay in such cases, that one grain of their active principle would digest 5000 grains of food in the stomach, and that aided by this remedy the stomach would soon regain its normal condition, he would do the student more good than sending him forth with a lot of uncertain knowledge about the cure of these diseased conditions.

The young doctor would gain a reputation by curing his first case of dyspepsia.

The patient cured would sound his praises far and near, as do thousands upon thousands who praise Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Instead of experimenting with the use of medicine in the above list and doing his patients more harm than good, he would always be curing his patients by always curing his patient.

When he met any indication of a diseased organ, he should discover what hundreds of other doctors have, that the whole trouble started with imperfect digestion and assimilation, then the rest of his pocket medicine case a few of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and tell the patient how to use them.

The result would be considered by the patient almost miraculous, and success after success would be achieved by him.

Many blood diseases, skin eruptions and heart troubles yield readily to Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, because they cure the incubating cause—dyspepsia. If the stomach is wrong you are wrong all over.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold everywhere at druggists—50 cents per package.

EARLIER NEWARK

(By Col. Charles H. Kibler)

The first gallon of coal oil I bought cost one dollar per gallon. This was distinctly COAL oil, distilled from cannon coal, not kerosene. There was a factory for the manufacture near the North Fork creek and not far from the site of the present Baltimore and Ohio station. There was, I think, another such factory on the site of the works of J. E. Thomas & Co., under the ownership of Joseph E. Holmes. The original gallon I have mentioned was not perfectly odorized and retained an odor not agreeable. But it furnished a better light than a candle.

Up to 1860, the only school houses owned by the city were the house now called the Central building, then of two stories in height, and a brick school house up near what was called "Whittle Point," on Mt. Vernon (Fourth) street. I may be mistaken as to this, but I can recall no other which was then owned by the city. The outside schools were held in rented buildings or rooms.

The public halls were the city hall, now divided into rooms for the convenience of the city officials; a large room in the three-story building on the east side of Second, not far from the canal, called the Melodeon Hall; and a large room in the top story of the stone building on the North Side of the Public Square. The court room in the old court house was sometimes used for public meetings.

I cannot remember that before 1860, we had a course of lectures, or any lectures by distinguished men, but I am not sure as to the latter. We occasionally had plays by traveling theatre companies. These were poor entertainments. Sometimes we had singer concert troupes, who gave the songs in vogue. The town was too small for the prima donnas and great singers.

We were not very literary. We had no public library (and haven't yet). At one time, under the auspices of Isaac Smucker, we organized a course of lectures by home talent. I was directed to prepare a lecture upon Russia, and did to the best of my ability. But we could not get audiences. The public, though the lectures were free, were free to stay away, and did. When my time came to read my lecture, not a dozen people attended. The audience though fit, was very few. I felt then like saying FEW, with a "vituperative epithet." I had labored hard upon it, and though it was not fine, it was sensible. This effort at public entertainment ended before the course was completed. I do not want it understood that many of the people were not readers. They were, and they were learned in their several professions, bought good books, took the papers and Harper's Magazine which had been first published in June, 1850. But they did not want lectures from their neighbors.

Our only literary man was Isaac Smucker. He had not the benefit of a college education. He acquired an education for himself. He was a great reader. Though not an extensive writer, he composed and published several books and pamphlets upon the early history of the State and county and the works of the Mound Builders. He was a very estimable gentleman, and in every respect was the good citizen.

LAWYERS MAKE ARGUMENTS IN SUPREME COURT

IN THE CASE OF OHIO VS. MRS. MARY J. LINGAFELTER

Appeal Was Taken to Highest Tribunal from Circuit Court—News of the Courts.

The case of the State of Ohio vs. Mary J. Lingafelter was argued orally in the Supreme court at Columbus Wednesday morning by B. G. Smythe of Newark, and F. V. Owens of Mt. Vernon for Mrs. Lingafelter, and by Judge Pomeroy of Coshocton on behalf of the prosecution. The lawyers for Mrs. Lingafelter contended that there was no just foundation what ever, either in law or in fact, for the verdict which was rendered against her. It will be remembered that the Circuit court reversed the verdict of the jury. The question argued on Wednesday in the Supreme court was whether the Circuit court decided rightly. The Supreme court will decide the case probably next Tuesday morning.

AN AFFAIR ON THE BOSPORUS.

[Original.]

Mahdesian was a kavass in the service of the sultan of Turkey. He was assigned to the American legation and more especially to the secretary, Robert Babcock, appointed by one of the first presidents of the United States. At that time the kavass was held accountable for the safety of the man he attended, and if any accident happened to his charge the kavass, whether in fault or not, forfeited his life.

Mahdesian's position was no sine-cure. Babcock had been a captain of rangers in the American Revolution and was only happy when in danger. The kavass, who found difficulty in getting his master's name, was advised by the secretary to call him Bob. This the servant did, much to the surprise and wonder of those who heard him.

One day Babcock was walking on a street in Constantinople when a palanquin passed him in which was a Turkish lady, who, as the American gazed upon her, removed the covering to her face and gave him a very sweet smile.

"Mahdesian," said Babcock to the kavass, who was walking behind him, "there's an adventure. A lady does me an honor. If I do not follow her up I will be a petron and a coward."

"O most excellent and exalted Bob," protested the servant, "that lady is from the harem of the sultan. I recognized her the moment she lifted her veil."

"You don't mean it!" declared the secretary, considerably staggered. One evening a few days later Babcock set out from the legation to take a walk. Mahdesian, who handed him his hat and cane, proposed to accompany him, but Babcock demurred.

Babcock was disporting his handsome figure on the street, got up in a claret colored coat, knee breeches, with white silk stockings, and glistening shoe buckles, when he was approached by a man, who said in broken English, "If you wish to meet a lady, follow me."

Babcock at once surmised that this meant an invitation from the lady he had met and admired and, with the recklessness natural to him, followed the Turk. He was conducted to the bank of the Bosphorus. Out in the stream, across which he remembered Leader had swum to his Hero, a United States man-of-war flying the American flag was lying at anchor. Presently the conductor stopped at a wall inclosing a garden at the rear of a dwelling. At a knock the door was opened from within, and the mau pushed Babcock through. Sitting on a bench was a lady, who rose, lifting her veil the while her pretty face was covered with blushes and smiles. Babcock stepped forward, seized her hand and kissed it. The lady, the same he had met before, informed him that she was a wife of the sultan, one of hundreds who had the name of wife without the reality. She had arranged this meeting at the dwelling of a friend on whom she could rely implicitly.

They had spent a happy hour together when suddenly half a dozen men came over the wall—the door was locked—and made them prisoners. At first they thought they had been betrayed to the sultan's bodyguard, but the leader of the men told them that they would be held for ransom. The robbers knew well that one was connected with the United States embassy while the other was of the imperial harem, and they demanded an enormous sum to keep the secret and let them go their way.

Now, this was a very unpleasant predicament—unpleasant for Babcock, for he was without fortune and unable to produce the ransom; unpleasant for the Turkish lady, who was in like financial condition, and unpleasant for the absent Mahdesian, who was responsible for his charge. Indeed, if there was no means of a settlement forthcoming all were sure to lose their lives. Babcock, who had been caught many a time by British soldiers in various traps without being held, was now really frightened, not for himself, but for the lady. He cursed his foolhardiness and especially regretted not permitting Mahdesian to come with him. If Babcock never returned to the legation the kavass would lose his head. If Babcock found no means of escape both he and the lady would be murdered.

Babcock kept the robbers waiting as long as possible, hoping for some solution. It was growing dark when he had entered the garden, and when the hour of midnight was approaching he had come to no conclusion. Suddenly, when he was meditating sending a message to the American minister, which was a last resort and a hopeless solution, a head appeared above the wall—the head of Mahdesian. He whistled, and immediately a dozen sailors or caps appeared on the wall, and in another moment twelve American jackies, with drawn cutlasses, dropped in to the garden.

Well, the robbers were left bound and gagged, and Babcock, the lady and Mahdesian were put in a cutter and rowed aboard the man-of-war. As soon as they had arrived Mahdesian explained as follows: "O most mighty Bob, knowing that if you got into difficulty I would lose my head, I followed you, saw the robbers attack you and informed the captain of this ship, who sent the men to save you."

There was nothing to do but for Babcock, the Turkish lady and the kavass to remain concealed on the ship, and when she sailed the next morning they sailed with her and were transferred at Naples to a vessel bound for the United States. Meanwhile the Turkish lady.

If one could find a cold cure that would cure one right up, one would be pretty quick to get it. That's what Ajax Cold Cure does, and it won't be long till Newark people will know as much about Ajax as they do over at Akron, where nearly everybody uses it. It's an Akron man's discovery, and it is said to be a wonder. Newark people now have the opportunity to secure Ajax at most drug stores. Ajax cures a new cold within an hour and an old one after five or six doses. It sells for a quarter. 3

Weak Hearts

Upon the heart action depends not only health, but life. Over-work, worry, great mental effort, sickness, or any unusual strain upon the nervous system, affects the heart, by increasing its labors. In this hustling age it is not surprising that one person in four has a weak heart. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure strengthens the heart nerves and muscles and restores healthy activity.

"I wrote the Miles Medical Co., asking advice as I was suffering with heart trouble and had been for two years. I had pain in my heart, back and left side, and had not been able to draw a deep breath for two years. Any little exertion would cause palpitation, and I could not lie on my left side, without suffering. They advised Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine, which I took with the result that I am in better health than I ever was before, having gained 14 pounds since I commenced taking it. I took about thirteen bottles of the two medicines and haven't been troubled one bit with my heart since. I recommend it to every one suffering as I did."

THE JAILER'S DAUGHTER.

"What is it?" asked the jailer's daughter, peering through the bars. She was a gauging girl of sixteen, with blue eyes and light wavy hair hanging loose over her back. The prisoner was a stalwart young fellow of twenty.

"Horse stealing."

"Couldn't you find nothing better to do than that?"

"I didn't steal any horses. A man with a grudge against me put up a job on me."

"Is that so? You oughtn't to swing if you didn't do it."

The prisoner went on reading a paper that had been given him.

"I'd let you out," she added in a low tone, "only you keep too sharp a watch on the keys, and there ain't much time."

The young man turned from his paper. "You can help me to get out if you wish," he said.

"How?"

"Can you get a saw?"

"Nothing but a buck saw."

"That won't do. Bring me a file and a case knife."

"Pop's got a file among his tools. I can get the case knife easy enough."

She went away, returning with the articles asked for. The prisoner, covering his hands with the bedclothing that the filer should be heard, proceeded to make a saw of the knife.

With one or both he proposed to cut away the bars to his window. This he did while the jailer's daughter strummed on a piano directly over his head so that the noise of cutting could not be heard.

When he had finished, the girl came again, and he said to her: "Goodby. If I get out safely, some day I may come back to reward you."

"I've been thinking I'd go with you," she said, her eyes glistening.

He looked at her earnestly for some time without speaking. What he was thinking she didn't know. At last he said:

"All right. Meet me soon after 2 o'clock tomorrow morning outside the wall."

When the prisoner heard the jailer's clock wheeze out 2 in the morning, he removed the bars, got out of the window, climbed a wall and stole away. He was joined by the girl, and together they ran for a time, then when they could run no longer walked and consulted.

"It's only five miles to the railroad this way," said the girl. "Reckon we better get on a train."

"Haven't got any money. Besides, we couldn't likely get a train till morning, and they'd get us sure."

"What'll we do?"

"Hide some place near by till the excitement has died out. There's a thick- et. We'll go in there and see what we can find."

On January 30th at 8 o'clock, thirty of the neighbors and friends of Isaac Finkbone assembled at his home, and on his return home from an errand, imagine Mr. Finkbone's surprise when the parlor door opened and out walked thirty of his neighbors and greeted him. He was completely surprised, but finally regained his presence of mind and remembered that it was his thirty-second birthday. The surprise had been planned by his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Finkbone, brother and sister of the victim. An elaborate supper was served at 10:30 which did ample justice to the hostess. Several fine pieces were played on the phonograph, and piano music was furnished by Mrs. Helen Keller. In behalf of the friends, Leasure Johns presented Mr. Finkbone with a fine oak rocker. At a late hour the guests departed wishing Mr. Finkbone many more such happy birthdays.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. George Abdalla and son Joy, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Umspaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Finkbone, Mr. and Mrs. John Tunison, Mr. and Mrs. Leasure Johns, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Pumphrey, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Tipton, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Brothers, Mr. and Mrs. John D. as though there would be many a skirt held up in the hand during the coming season. It is unreasonable to ask a woman to hold a train in her hand. Yet what is one going to do when Dame Fashion cries loudly for long skirts? Many of the new trains are pointed and very draggily in effect, and a very large percentage of them have the exaggerated train that was fashionable many seasons ago.

A lovely ball dress in the outfit of a recent debutante is of white tulle with bouffes of Brussels lace, the large motifs of the lace being outlined by a white satin cord.

The lingerie shirt waist seen in the illustration offers opportunity for ornamentation in the way of hand embroidery and lace insertion. There is a great variety of models from which to select. Some are made on severe lines, which show the different trimmings.

Not for a decade have gingham been so popular for small girls' gowns as they are at the present season, and there is nothing more serviceable than this material. If good clear colors are selected in blue, pink or green and reasonable care is taken in laundering them, they will look well until entirely worn out. No matter how fascinating are the shades shown in browns, they should be faded, as they are bound to run when washed. If delicate tones are dipped in turpentine and then washed in warm water and a good pure soap they will not fade. The design shown in the illustration is to be made with a white gingham.

HOUSEBOATING ON BIG SCALE.

Idea Which May Grow Into an Extensive and Profitable Industry.

An enterprising sea captain of Falmouth, England, has hit upon a plan by which people who desire to enjoy sea life without assuming the risks of an ocean voyage can be accommodated with profit, says the Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin. He is looking for an obsolete ocean liner, which he intends to deprive of her power plant in order to secure more room and convert the ship into a floating hotel. The idea is to keep the ship at anchor off Falmouth and provide for the comfort of 150 or more passengers on an ocean trip that is limited by the length of the anchor chain and the swing of the ship. Amusements will be organized on board, and those who take to sea life of this kind will be provided with diversions sufficient to take their minds from the fact that they are at anchor all the time. It is estimated that all this can be done at a profit for charges somewhat lower than those of first class hotels ashore.

Houseboating on a large scale might appeal to investors on the great lakes. A large steamer moored safely in a harbor like that formed by the breakwater at Milwaukee would be an attractive floating hotel, on which landlubbers could take an imaginary lake voyage without running the risks of seasickness or delays by storms. A hotel at anchor in the bay would be "far from the madding crowd," yet near enough at all times to enable a merchant to drop ashore for a few hours' business each day. It would be a quiet, dustless and smokeless place in which to pass the hot weeks of midsummer.

GALLANT UNCLE JOE.

Speaker Cannon Tells Pretty Stories Why He Opposes Woman Suffrage.

Speaker Cannon of the house of representatives recently received one of the most beautiful clusters of American Beauties he ever saw; at least that is what he told them when they were ushered into his room at the capitol to be introduced to the "next president," says a Washington special dispatch to the New York Times. There were twenty in the cluster, or, to be more accurate, in the "bery." They were students at the Martha Washington seminary in Washington and came from almost as many states, including Maryland, Arkansas, Texas, Georgia, Tennessee, New York and Virginia, and, luckiest of all, one came from Illinois.

And maybe the little Illinois maiden didn't blush. Uncle Joe plied her with questions about her people and her life in Washington. He said nice things to the others, too, but before they left he took a rap at woman's suffrage.

"I appreciate the great honor you have paid me," he said. "However, I rather doubt whether you young ladies from Georgia, Texas, Virginia, Arkansas and other states in the south really want to see me elected. No, I am opposed to woman suffrage, and I'll tell you why. Pretty women like you would always control two votes—your own and some man's." The girls blushed.

"Now, I can tell," continued the speaker. "I only have to look into your eyes when they light up that way to be sure that each of you would determine how some man would vote."

NEIGHBORS THAT WERE COLD.

"Trinity Church an' Cimitry" Didn't Patronize Cafe, Newell Tells Court.

John Newell of Pittsburgh, owner of Newell's hotel, a sporting man, humorist and brother-in-law of the late Daniel O'Day, almost broke up a session of court the other day over which Judge Marshall Brown was presiding, says a Pittsburgh special dispatch to the New York Times.

Newell appeared to protest against the increase of taxes on his hotel because of the widening of Oliver avenue, in the rear of the hotel. With tears in his eyes Newell told Judge Brown that he had not been benefited by the widening; that not even his neighbors on the opposite side of the street from his Oliver avenue entrance used it to enter his cafe.

Judge Brown was greatly interested by the argument and then, as an afterthought, asked Newell who his neighbors on the opposite side of the street were.

"Trinity church an' the cimitry," yer honor," replied Newell, smiling through his tears.

Judge Brown's dignity left him. He shook with laughter for three minutes while the witnesses vainly tried to restore order. When Judge Brown finally recovered he said:

"I guess that will be about enough for you, Mr. Newell."

No decision was rendered.

Boat Club on a University Campus.

President Jackson of Chicago university met with twenty or thirty of the university's alumni the other night at the Harvard club in New York. He told them about the present condition of the institution and about the plans for the future based on John D. Rockefeller's munificent gifts of the last two years, says the New York Times. He told the alumni that some day Chicago university could have its boat club on the campus. Plans now being carried out consist of bringing water from Lake Michigan right up to the front steps of the university. In furthering this plan the president said that because of recent gifts there was no need to pursue a policy of retrenchment at Chicago; that the salaries of the instructors, indeed, were being raised.

championship amateur pitchers' record for Ohio.

He is a promising youngster, 19 years of age, weighs 150 pounds and is 5 feet 8 inches in height. He has been the pitcher for the Sycamore, Ohio, team for the past three years doing all the work unassisted. He was raised in a town and county where they frame material for the big leagues. Eddie Hahn, with the Chicago White Sox, comes from near the same place. Winfield Osborn, of the Philadelphia Nationals, was one of young Koehl's teachers, and both boys attended school together at Sycamore. Tuttle, the crack Michigan state league player, also played with Sycamore, being a resident of that city.

In the seasons of 1906 and 1907 Koehl pitched 45 games, winning 41 and losing 4. The first 39 of these games were straight victories. In 9 high school games played in 1907 Koehl was credited with 111 strikeouts, the last three games of which were 18, 19 and 18 strikeouts respectively.

This splendid record of the youngster attracted the notice of Manager Bill Armour of Toledo, and he sent for the boy and gave him a try out. He offered to sign him with Toledo and perhaps would have farmed him out to some minor league club until he was ready for fast company but Koehl was ambitious and had a desire to get placed where he would have a chance to come to the front providing he can make good, hence he signed a Newark contract.

When Manager Bob Berryhill was in Cleveland in January he met his old friend, Manager Armour, and asked him his opinion of the lad. Mr. Armour replied that he was a comer and with proper training would make a top-notch pitcher.

The lad may or may not make good when he reports for spring training, but he will make an awful effort. He has the ambition and it is such youngsters that usually land on the right side.

LIMA PLEASED

Citizens Have Provided $5,000 for Ohio State League Club—Jessup May Come In.

Lima, Feb. 5.—Lima fans are well pleased with the Ohio State league as decided upon at Columbus during the past week, and though it is still considered that in all probability both Richmond and Hamilton or some other city will come into the fold and make an 8-club league, nevertheless the local people have completed their end of the $5,000 stock company and will meet President J. J. McIntyre and Manager Ferd Drumm to perfect the organization of the company today.

Manager Drumm has announced no players for his Lima line-up as yet, but he has 50 or 60 letters awaiting him here. He will endeavor to secure youngsters, with just sufficient old heads to balance the team. With Lima, Marion, Lancaster, Mansfield, Springfield and Newark ready for all emergencies, the Ohio State is a surety.

Drumm says he has a fine bunch of ball tossers from which to choose a team, and that candidates will report April 1. He has no fear that the old teams in the O. P. C., Mansfield, Lancaster, Newark and Marion, will

A large entry is now expected in bird dogs. Nearly every dog owner that exhibited last year will exhibit and some of them have new dogs to show while others have their dogs in better show shape.

We do not believe there is a Newark fancier who is afraid to back his home town and not let Columbus make them show the prize lists.

The yellow lists are out and we would be pleased to mail any one a list. Address or phone to Kuster's Cafe, phone 1086.

There will be a meeting of the club members and all members are requested to be present. This is a general business meeting on the arrangement of show room.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR.

"The Man of the Hour," the play by George Broadhurst which is to be acted here next Friday night, in the Auditorium, by William A. Brady and Joseph R. Gilsmer's special company, is unique in one respect. This is that every character in it is describable without the use of the character name. This would seem to indicate what has all along been claimed for this good and unusual play—that the author drew his types from the life around him. What other play of real note and with an uncommon record of successes in the big cities of the country can be pointed to as con-

Alderman, the Financier, the Broker, the Secretary, the Easy Mark, the Heiress, the Stenographer, and the Mother.

MRS. TEMPLE'S TELEGRAM.

"Mrs. Temple's Telegram" has proven the dramatic surprise of the last three seasons, largely because of the skilled manner in which Manager Walter N. Lawrence of Madison Square theater, New York, has been able to present it to the public. It has mounted the fence in the most lavish manner, and has employed an almost perfect company in its interpretation. They play with almost with a number of top notchers. Wednesday evening two large audiences were more than delighted and they made the performers respond to many encores. The first number was a splendid piano overture excellently rendered by Miss Grace Miller.

Howlett and Webster appeared in a refined singing and talking act. The act is finely costumed, but might be improved by allowing Miss Webster more lines. Howlett's jokes are good and they are new, and that's what takes with the audience.

Will Fields is the scream. His portrayal of the Hebrew character is undoubtedly the best ever given in the taining dramatic personages who may be talked of in this wise?

The hero is always spoken of as the Mayor; his chief opponent as the Boss; his man chum as the Idler; his sweetheart as the Heiress; the chum's fiancée as the Stenographer; his political ally as the Alderman; the ally of the Boss as the Financier; the Financier's ally as the Broker; the official "bull" of the scoundrels as the Judge; the Mother is the reference to one of the good women of the play; and the Easy Mark is the manner in which a weak and uncertain young business man is spoken of because he wavers and oscillates between the temptation to do evil and his natural inclination to be good. And, if anybody be asked as to another character, and one of importance in the unfolding of the thrilling plot of intrigue and love, he or she will reply, "Oh! you must mean the Secretary!"

All these sound, true, recognizable American types will be seen in the Auditorium on Friday evening next—the Mayor, the Idler, the Boss, the perfect skill and the play runs smoothly and delightfully. One begins laughing almost with the first word spoken on the stage, and does not stop until the final curtain falls. New complications arise every moment and the interest is sustained until the end of the play, which comes suddenly and without the usual warning. It is modestly announced as a farce, and so it is, technically speaking, but so skillfully played as to give to those who see it, the delight and satisfaction high attend a finished performance of comedy.

It is a farce played as comedy, and thus treated, its clever situations and entanglements which otherwise might seem strained and theatrical become the "real things." At the Auditorium Saturday, February 3, matinee and night. Seat sale now on. Matinee tickets reserved.

THE ORPHIUM.

The bill at the popular Orphium theater this week continues to pack the houses. Manager G. Sachs is to be congratulated for furnishing the patrons of this popular play house, city. Fields' reputation extends beyond the vaudeville field and he has participated in a number of standard productions. His monologue work kept the large audience in a continual roar and they couldn't get enough of him even after he had responded to three encores. His dialect songs, farces on popular melodies, also made a great hit.

WILL H. FIELDS, Hebrew Comedian.

The Lamonts, banjoists and vocalists, have a refined act that is deserving of much praise. Miss Lamont's sweet singing is greatly enjoyed by all who have the good fortune to hear her and the team make the banjos do everything but talk.

Ira Haynes is singing the illustrated song, "The Birds of Georgia," and as usual is making quite a hit. He has become very popular with Orphium audiences.

The Wheelers, comedy jugglers, are undoubtedly the best in the business in their particular line. If you are down in the month, if you are in the blue, if you think there is nothing in this old world worth living for, visit the Orphium and watch this act of the Wheelers, and you will forget all about your troubles. There are some funny people, but the Wheelers are funnier.

The moving pictures are among the best ever exhibited and the one entitled "Dear, old Friends" is certainly a splendid piece of work. You will not fail to visit this week's show.

LETTER

WRITTEN FOR ADVOCATE BY MISS NANCY BYERS VANCE OF NEWARK.

Now "Pioneering" in Southern Idaho in Which She Gives Impressions of That Section.

(By Nancy Byers Vance.)

Buhl, Idaho, Feb. 1.—When I left home the 10th of last July, there was little thought in my mind, that before the close of the year, I should be "pioneering" in Southern Idaho. Had any one told me then that the pioneer life was the life for me, it would have appealed to my sense of humor, but to have believed it?—Never!

But here I am in Buhl, bustling Buhl, a town you will not find on the map, but a town very much in evidence on the Great Twin Falls Tract. However if you take your map of Idaho you will be able to locate us five miles south of the Snake river and about same distance east from the Salmon.

To go back to the beginning of things. My first impressions of Buhl, Idaho were not pleasant, but I am happy to say, in this case, first impressions were not lasting.

I was visiting in Nebraska, during September and making all my plans to go home the first of October, when a telegram came from my aunt, asking me to come to Buhl and take the primary work. I accepted the proposition at once and left Lincoln within two days, with, I must confess, many misgivings. Perhaps, had I realized the "newness" of this country, my ticket would have been for the east instead of the west.

The trip from Lincoln to Ogden was most delightful, as I came by the Denver & Rio Grande and met some very charming people enroute. But at Ogden we came to the "parting of the ways" and I seemed to be the only one coming this way. From Ogden on, it seemed to be nothing but change cars and wait, until I was completely tired out. We arrived in Pocatello early Sunday morning—cold, tired and hungry. Here I had my first glimpse of the sage brush country, and here also I experienced my first real spell of homesickness. To land in the Pocatello station so early in the morning, and find it crowded with Indians, Japs and Chinamen, was a sight to make one long for home and home friends.

There is an Indian reservation not far from Pocatello. The Indians in the reservation belong to the Black-foot tribe. Some, that I saw were very gorgeously arrayed but they were for the most part a sorry looking outfit.

From Pocatello on we saw little, else but sage brush. I did not appreciate it then as I do now. One has to live in a sage brush country to do that fully. It seemed like a trackless desert to me, and really had a very depressing effect, but there is a fascination about it now. Every one speaks of it. We use it for fuel, and I love the smell of burning sage brush. One learns too, of course, with coal $8 a ton.

I thought when I changed at Minidoka it would take but a few hours to reach Buhl, but alas! for high blown hopes, the "passenger" was not running any farther than Twin Falls—but the conductor told me the work train would go down to Buhl sometime during the afternoon, so after another wait of two hours, a short ride in company with the bosses and their wives, and the Greeks, I arrived.

The Great Twin Falls tract, containing 270,000 acres, was opened three years ago under the Carey Land Act. It is well irrigated. The main canal is 63 miles long with hundreds of miles of laterals. This is the largest irrigating enterprise in the United States and the third largest in the world. The big dam is at Milner. One would think there would be little water left in the Snake river, from the amount in use on this tract, but I believe there is no danger of a water famine at present. There are a number of towns on the tract, Twin Falls, of course, being the largest. It is the county seat of Twin Falls county. One can scarcely believe that three years ago there was nothing there but sage brush. Twin Falls is building rapidly. It has a very good hotel, a thirty thousand dollar school house, and another one projected, to be built this summer.

But I belong to Buhl, and am one of the "Buhl Boosters"—so I dare not say too much for Twin Falls. The motto of Buhl is "Be a Booster!" and the majority of the people live up to this motto, for we all believe that Buhl will become a prosperous little city before many years. I must confess, however, that Buhl did not appeal to me that way when I saw it first.

Buhl is named for Mr. Buhl of Sharon, Pa., who financed this project. It enjoys the proud distinction of being the terminal of the Minidoka and Southwestern, a branch of the Oregon Short Line. We have two trains a day—the "passenger" due at one in the afternoon and leaving at five, the "freight" coming in during the evening and leaving in the morning.

Buhl is laid out diagonally with the points of the compass, while the roads are straight with the world. Up here on the ranch the sun behaves very properly, rising in the east and setting in the west, but down in town—it has a curious habit of rising or setting most any place. In giving directions we say "east or west from the town site"—but in town the safest way is to point. Some one told me it was laid out that way on account of the wind.

There are three business streets in Buhl. In this town, less than two years old, we have three mercantile stores, two hardware stores, two banks, two drug stores, three or four investment companies, two furniture stores, three lumber companies, an implement and carriage shop, and last but not least, a weekly newspaper, the Buhl Pioneer. The postmaster told me the other day that there are over a thousand people getting their mail here.

The five church denominations are fully organized, although we have no church buildings. The ministers of the different denominations come one Sunday in the month. We have the St. Elizabeth Guild of the Episcopal church, and a Union Ladies Aid society. Also the Union Ladies school. The plans have been submitted and work will soon begin on the Episcopal church.

A new school building will be built during the summer. Mr. Buhl gave $25,000 for that purpose. Meanwhile our school accommodations are not of the best. The school attendance is very large in comparison with last year. The children come from far and near, some coming five and six miles. We have four teachers now, and I have the first and second grades.

I am living with my aunt on a ranch just above the town site. It is known as the Buhl Ranch, and comprises 160 acres. The Bungalows is in the midst of a forty acre alfalfa field. I thought when I came last September, that that alfalfa field was one of the prettiest sights I had seen. It was just ready for the third cutting and the vivid green of the alfalfa was in beautiful contrast to the gray green of the sage brush. I enclose a picture that shows one of our hay stacks and the hay denials. There were three or four other stacks the same size—the crop of this one field.

The people from Buhl are from everywhere, imaginable. The question one naturally asks is, "How did you come here?" In a word, Washington says to me the Buhl is a residential town, with the Buhl as a base of operations, and the Buhl as a base of operations, the people are very charming and have been in the Buhl since the pioneer within their gates.

This climate is very beautiful, except when the wind blows. But then the wind doesn't blow all the time. We have had a little snow, but not enough for sleighing. It does not seem so cold to me here as it is back in Ohio. I presume that is due to the dryness of the atmosphere.

We are in the Snake River Valley and not so very far from the mountains. The Snake River Range is thirty-five miles north of us. We can see the mountains of this range very plainly—and they are very beautiful now that they are covered with snow. They are ever changing, so one never grows tired of watching them. Sometimes, indeed, I feel very, very far from home and my home friends, but I enjoy the work here and the experience has been very novel and one I'd be very sorry to miss. This is such a wonderful country and it seems more wonderful to me every day, when I realize what a dreary place it must have been three years ago. It is the country of the future, for with the wonderful water power, its development is an assured thing. It is a fine place for investment, either in land or business. Those who wish to take up land find the terms very easy. If you know of any persons who long for the pioneer life and have money to invest send them to Sunny Southern Idaho.

There is so much to tell I do not know where to stop, but think I have written enough for this time.

The Advocate comes daily and it truly seems like an old friend. It is needless to say that I watch for it eagerly, and read it religiously. There have been a number of changes in the seven months I have been gone, and I find it hard to realize that so many dear friends have been taken away.

With kindest regards and best wishes to the Advocate and hoping this long communication has not wearied you, I remain,

Faithfully yours,

Nancy Byers Vance.

Granville, O., Feb. 5.—The second semester of Denison University opened Tuesday morning with chapel at 9 o'clock, after which the students registered. A number of new students have entered the college and all seem to have started the last half of the year with vim and enthusiasm, and good work and results are looked for.

Mrs. Frank Webb and Miss Mary Neil of Newark, Mrs. Robert Hunt of Franklin, and Miss Helen Crane of Newark attended the Kappa Phi initiation Monday night.

Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Colwell will enter on the Greek classes of Dr. Colwell at "Kappa Phi" on Saturday evening, February 8.

ERYSIPELAS CURED

By a Wonderful Remedy

Erysipelas is recognized by the medical profession as a most dangerous and loathsome disease; one which baffles their skill and has been pronounced contagious to a marked degree. The following letter describes a remarkable cure recently made by the PALMER "SUCCESS" SYSTEM OF TREATMENT:

"I take pleasure in testifying to the wonderful work of the 'KIN-SUCCESS' Remedies. Had a sore in the corner of my mouth, and it spread until it covered my face with a mass of corruption. The doctor said I had erysipelas, gave me a solution to apply and a powder to dry it up. The remedies did not accomplish anything, and I nearly went out of my mind with the pain in my face. In all friend of the family advised me to try the Palmer treatment. I immediately purchased these remedies at the drug store and am very glad to say they promptly and permanently cured me. These remedies certainly are excellent, and I gladly recommend them."—John W. Walsh, 17 Sunny Lane, Carbondale, Pa.

Such commendation is, indeed, something of which to be proud. MISS ADELINE GENEÉ IN "THE SOUL KISS," New York Theatre

New York, Feb. 5.—Miss Adeline Genée has poetry in her toes. The dancer from the Empire in London, is appearing here for the first time in the New York theatre in Mr. Florenz Ziegfeld Jr.'s production of "The Soul Kiss," and she dances her way straight into the hearts and the hands of her audience. The charm about Miss Genée's dancing is that it is so expressive. On the stage she is dumb, save for her twinkling eyes, and they speak volumes. Except in walking she seems seldom to touch the ground, and the grace of her motions is such that it seems to remind you of the low, low flight of a bird. There is a certain mystery about her dancing that is irresistible, and its charm is heightened by a delightful stage presence.

EDITOR C. L'H. LONG IS A GRANDFATHER

Editor Charles L'H. Long of the American-Tribune, is wearing a smile today that is attracting the attention of every one he meets, and he has a right to smile and is stretching that right to the limit. He commenced smiling very early Wednesday morning and the smile is a genuine one, too. It is no make-believe effort on his part but a whole souled effect that is contagious.

The answer is very simple. For Mr. Long is a grandfather, the proud grandfather of as fine a baby boy as ever a proud grandparent smiled upon. The boy arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Long of Greenville street Wednesday. While various remarks relative to the age of Mr. Long have been made since the arrival of the lusty youngster at his son's home, they haven't worried him

"CROM" BROWN ESCAPED FROM STATE HOSPITAL

But Was Later Apprehended in Columbus and Returned to the Institution.

Sheriff S. L. Reiman received a telephone message Tuesday afternoon informing him that Cromwell Brown, a well known resident of Newark, who had been sent to the State Hospital a few weeks ago, had escaped from the institution Tuesday morning, and for the officials here to be on the lookout for him, as it was thought that he would make direct for Newark. Wednesday morning, however, Mr. Edward Brown, brother of the patient, received word that Cromwell had been found in Columbus and that he had been returned to the institution. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brown went over to Columbus Wednesday.

SERIES OF MEETINGS AT FIRST M. E. CHURCH BEGIN NEXT SUNDAY

Next Sunday morning Rev. L. C. Sparks will begin a series of evangelistic meetings at the First M. E. church. The first week he will be assisted by Miss Marshall as gospel soloist. Beginning with the second week Prof. Melvin J. Hill of Detroit, Mich., will assist the pastor. Mr. Hill is a great singer and Christian worker whose efforts in other places have been crowned with unusual success. These meetings are expected to result in a large ingathering as already there is manifest a score having recently united with the church at the regular service.

It is almost as easy to give advice as to neglect it.

New York, Feb. 5.—To whom it may concern: By the payment of wholesale and retail licenses, and my compliance with the laws of the state of New Jersey, I am permitted to retail intoxicating liquors at my place of business, Roebling, Florence township. To the wife who has a drunkard for a husband, or a friend who is unfortunately dissipated, I say emphatically, give me notice, in person, and all such cases shall be excluded from drinking at my place of business. I want it distinctly understood that I have no desire to sell to drunkards, minors or to the poor and destitute. I much prefer that they save their money and put it where it will do the most good to their families. There are men of honor and men of money who can afford it, and it is with these I desire to trade.

To those who wish to trade with me and cannot afford it, come and you will be treated right. THOMAS J. BARRETT, Roebling, N. J. is called the "millionaire" of the two thousand workmen who make up the population of that place. Not that all of the men in the Roebling company's mills need a good deal of money, but those who do find one in Barrett. Roebling is known as the model village and Barrett says he will maintain the reputation of the community by keeping a model hotel and saloon—one which will exclude the habitual drinker and the man too poor to spend money for liquor, and cater only to "men of honor and who can afford it." To this end he has had printed and scattered broadcast cards outlining his purpose and principles.

THE BIRDS OF OHIO

Great Admiration All Day Tuesday at Edmiston's.

From early in the morning till darkness settled down on Newark, a constant stream of admiring visitors and patrons could be found all day yesterday in front of and inside Edmiston's Book Store, looking at the splendid work which the publishers have done upon their monumental book, "The Birds of Ohio." Such expressions as "Aren't they perfectly beautiful?" "Finest I ever saw," "I didn't have any idea there were so many birds in Ohio," "I never saw such a beautiful work on birds," and "Put me down for a copy," could be heard all day long. "Opening Day" for the Ohio Birds in the beautiful dress made for them by The Ohio Library Co. of Columbus, was certainly a great success, and proves that the publishers did not presume too much on the interest and patronage of all intelligent Ohio people when they spent twelve thousand dollars on this one book.

Remember there are 320 Ohio Birds illustrated and described. Remember there are 50 Full Page Colored Plates in each Book. Remember there are 216 original photographs of five birds, nests, eggs, homes and haunts in the work. Remember there are complete keys to identify any bird.

Remember each of the 320 birds is described in detail by a double treatment, both scientific and popular.

Remember that there are complete "indicatory tables" showing the arrival and departure of all the birds, so far as possible to secure records.

Remember that there are complete indexes to all the Birds, which places instant information within the control of the user.

Remember, everything about the book is "made upon honor," that is a beautiful piece of work, and "good for a life time."

And if you remember this week, you can be sure of what side of the Atlantic Ocean you are on, which are being given to the Ohio Nature Book to the Ohio Nature Book, and the Ohio Nature Book.

RESTORING ARID LAND

Significance of Government Irrigation at Garden City, Kan.

TO TAP HIDDEN STREAMS.

If Federal Project is Successful Other Sections of Dry Great Plains May Be Similarly Treated—Local Industries Already Encouraged.

The experimental application of an irrigation project of the government reclamation service—one which, should it prove its worth in the one instance, will be of importance to the rich, but as yet unfertile valleys of the great plains—will be possible near Garden City, Kan., next spring, according to the estimates of the engineers in charge of the work, says a Garden City correspondent of the Kansas City Star.

To reclaim the abundant acreage of this section of Kansas, unproductive through the lack of water at the very season when moisture is most essential to the raising of the crops, the government is now arranging for the installation of a complex system of pumps and wells destined to supply from subterranean springs and streams in excess of 10,000,000 gallons of water for the irrigation of the adjacent country each season.

Since the early days of Kansas this western section had been considered next to worthless and barren because of this very lack of water, which it is now planned to overcome by tapping the supply which is found in the gravel deposits under the great plains at no great depth. The original settlers of the lands in Kansas found that they had taken up claims not worth their pains. They returned east or south whence they had come. Their mortgages lapsed, and small and large capitalists as far away as New England found themselves interested in arid Kansas prairie which held forth not even the most vague promise of future fecundity. The land had lain in disuse and disrepute through decades until the development of the sugar beet industry with the aid of irrigation, some years ago, again drew attention to the practically deserted section.

Now the government purposes, by tapping these hidden streams of much needed moisture, pumping it to the surface and spreading out over great areas, to transform what was discarded of the first settlers into a new land of desire for the farmer of the west. Naturally a good deal of public interest in many sections of the country attaches itself to the success or failure of the projected work, more so in view of the eastern held mortgages and the probability of the application of similar methods in other localities in the event of the successful operation of the Garden City scheme.

The reclamation service plans to utilize some of the water in the Arkansas valley, and its plans are unique and unusual. To bring the water to the surface a series of wells has been bored, the aggregate length of which is more than four miles, and pumps which were purchased from Buffalo are to be installed. The project will have 230 wells, varying in depth from 40 to 300 feet and sunk in groups of ten wells, with one pump installed for each group. These wells vary from twelve to fifteen inches in diameter, and it is estimated that each group will yield 6,580 gallons per minute under a fifteen foot head. Each pumping station is connected by suction pipes to a No. 9 vertical centrifugal pump driven by a twenty-five horsepower vertical motor. The twenty-three stations will be operated from a central power plant, run by electricity, generated by steam power.

During the irrigation season this pumping system will lift 30,000 acre feet, or 10,775,000,000 gallons.

The big ditch which is to carry the vast supply of water to the district to be irrigated is, along with other details of the arrangement, under present process of construction. From this main channel the hundreds of branch lines which will in turn feed the individual ditches are to go forth.

The government's work has already proved a stimulus to the settlement of the district and to private enterprise already in Garden City. There has been a jump in land values since the inauguration of the work, and prospects are that the eastern money invested in the original mortgages will get bring a fair return.

An Aquatic Rabbit.

William Zimmerman, a Postal Telegraph messenger of Dubois, Pa., recently demonstrated that a rabbit can swim when it must, says the Philadelphia Record. Zimmerman caught a rabbit on the island north of the house and took it to the Pennsylvania freight depot. Brier Rabbit made an especially busy kick and escaped from Zimmerman's hands, fleeing among the freight cars with him and several other youths in chase. Headed off on all sides, the little creature dived between the wheels of a moving locomotive and with a dart of his short tail jumped into Sandy creek, which he swam like a duck, and quickly disappeared toward his home in the rushes.
